Soroptimists select June Davis as training awards recipient

Lemon Grove resident June Davis has been awarded the $500 Training Awards Program (TAP) Scholarship awarded annually by the Soroptimist International of Lemon Grove.

Judges Dr. James Justeson, Superintendent of the Lemon Grove School District; Vern Marston, Manager of the Lemon Grove branch of Union Bank; and Kathy Wilder of the San Diego County Sheriff's Department, selected Davis from a field of 20 candidates, according to TAP chairperson, Carol Chubb.

Davis, 30, was chosen to receive the scholarship in recognition of her continued efforts to gain an education at Grossmont College in the cardiovascular field. Divorced and employed part-time, Davis is the mother of six children, ages two through eleven, and wants to improve her position so that she may support them without governmental assistance, Davis stated.

Davis was also chosen by District III, which encompasses East County, to compete with scholarship winners from the region. On April 23, she was selected to receive additional scholarships of $500 and $1,500, awarded annually by the Desert Coast Region, which is comprised of all Soroptomist Organizations in Southern California.

Lemon Grove Council approves increase in taxi fare from 75¢ to $1

The Lemon Grove City Council approved Monday an increase in the Dial-A-Ride Taxi service from 75 cents to a dollar. The program, funded by Transit District Authority monies through the MTDB, is expected to provide transportation to 40,000 passengers this year, and a thousand more next year. The fare has not been raised since 1981. The new fare will be effective July 1. In the same action, Council authorized a claim for $79,904 in TDA funds from MTDB.

Council also approved a contract purchasing interior furnishings for the Lemon Grove Senior Center which is now under construction. The accepted bid was submitted by Office Furniture Specialists, Inc., in the amount of $21,654.24, nine percent below cost estimates.

In other action, Council agreed to endorse a curbside recycling program presented by EDCO Disposal, as a two-phase project. The first, or pilot phase, of the program is the collection of separated recyclable materials such as newspaper, aluminum cans, glass, plastic beverage containers, and mixed paper from a test group of 1,000 homes. Phase Two is a city-wide version of the same program, scheduled to begin in early 1990.

Traffic citations tallied for April

The California Highway Patrol in the East County reported that in April, 275 drivers were arrested for driving under the influence of drugs.

Other infractions: Speeders, 1,425, 723 of whom were driving above 55 and 9 exceeding 100 mph; 1,278 seat belt charges; insurance, 1,499; and tinted windshields, 420.

In Lemon Grove, during the month, 507 speeders were cited; 73 seatbelt charges; no insurance, 230; and 21 DUI's were arrested.

Spring Valley residents to attact graffiti

Second District Supervisor George F. Bailey will join Captain Jim Roache of the Lemon Grove Sheriff's Department and Spring Valley residents for a SPRING VALLEY COMMUNITY ANTI-GRAFFITI DAY on Saturday, May 6, 1989, at 8 a.m.

"Over 200 people will be dispatched from the Spring Valley K-Mart parking lot to areas where graffiti has been identified," Bailey said. "Armed with paint brushes and other cleaning materials, community members will work side by side to clean up as much graffiti as possible in one day."

"It is satisfying to see the commitments of so many Spring Valley residents and interested people who want to help," Bailey said. "Service Clubs, Spring Valley Chamber of Commerce, Spring Valley Revitalization Advisory Council, County Public Works, Boy and Girl Scout troops, all Spring Valley Schools, and Neighborhood Watch Groups will be represented in work teams throughout the area. The Sheriff and Probation Departments will also provide and supervise teams of workers. We appreciate the outpouring of interest, contributions and donations."

"Most of the letters and calls I have received from Spring Valley residents have pointed out problems, especially in the La Presa area. The Sheriff's Office reports increased crime and drug activity. Graffiti mars many areas as a sign of gang activity and gangs establishing 'turfs.' "

Our goal is to clean this graffiti off every corner in the La Presa area and to keep it clean," Bailey went on to say. "I am hopeful that this effort will give the Spring Valley residents a major boost in combating this difficult problem, and will create the impetus necessary to keep this area free from graffiti. Public utilities such as San Diego Gas and Electric, Cable TV, and Pacific Telephone Company, with government agencies who have equipment in the area which has graffiti on it, have already started and will continue to clean the graffiti on May 6th and thereafter. Neighborhood watch groups which have organized successful anti-graffiti campaigns in their own neighborhoods, have offered to help other neighborhoods organize similar efforts.

Probation, schools and the Sheriff's Department will supervise community service work of juveniles from the area."

"Crime, drugs, gangs and graffiti are community problems which can only be solved or diminished if the people in the community act to work with law enforcement and county government.

May 6th is an opportunity for Spring Valley residents to unite and show the gangs that graffiti will not be tolerated. The SPRING VALLEY COMMUNITY ANTI-GRAFFITI DAY is an important step and will combine with other 'zero tolerance' programs to give us drug-free housing, neighborhoods and work places. SPRING VALLEY COMMUNITY ANTI-GRAFFITI DAY is helping to do just that."

Participants will gather in the K-Mart parking lot at Jamacha Boulevard and Sweetwater Road on May 6th, starting at 8 a.m. for an all day event. Interested parties are invited.

To volunteer to help or to report locations of graffiti in your area, call 441-4100 before May 6th.

Accidental shooting kills 12-year-old

A 12-year-old boy was killed Thursday, April 27, while playing with guns with two friends, according to Detective Bruce Fulton, spokesman for the Sheriff's Department.

Charleton Michael Blackmon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Blackmon, died instantly at their Ensenada Street home of a shot to the head, which is presently presumed to be self-inflicted. He was a student at Palm Middle School.

The boys apparently became bored watching television after school, and the victim produced his father's guns to entertain his friends. The incident occurred between 1:30 and 1:40 p.m., Fulton said.

Blackmon had removed the clip from the weapon he was playing with and pointed the gun at his own head, not realizing a round remained in the chamber, the two young witnesses reported.

Detective Robert Sams, Sheriff's Homicide Detail, said that the victim had a working knowledge of firearms, and the tragedy should not have happened. He added that the victim's parents will not face child endangerment charges.

"A tragic accident," Sams commented, noting that testing of the firearms used in the "gun battle" romp remains to be done to determine which weapon fired the shot. "It was purely an accident, and no one's going to be prosecuted," Sams said, whatever the test may show.

The victim's friends reported the incident by calling 911. The call was made from another residence some blocks from the Blackmon home. Deputy Karen Lawson responded to the emergency call, as did fire-fighters and paramedics, who attempted unsuccessfully to resuscitate the victim.

Details of the accident remain under investigation by homicide detectives, Sams said.

The CAP test is given to seniors each December covering reading, math, editing (which includes spelling) and for the first time, direct writing. Only reading and math scores are available at this time. The relative ranking reflects how the school or district did in comparison with others judged to have similar socioeconomic conditions. Factors such as parents' occupation, parents' level of education, transiency of students, and the percentage of non-English speaking or limited-English speaking students are used to determine which schools have similar socioeconomic conditions. If the relative ranking is higher than the state ranking, it indicates that the school did better than the state ranking implies, when you consider the socioeconomic conditions.

Helix, Monte Vista, and Grossmont showed the highest combined raw scores in math and reading, with little difference between the three schools. However, Mt. Miguel was highest in relative ranking, which reflects highly on the strength and effectiveness of the Mt. Miguel program also.

Granite Hills and Valhalla appear to have stumbled this year, the only Grossmont District schools to do worse than last year on the test. (Valhalla in reading, and Granite Hills in math and reading). Neither school reached the mid-point in the relative scores which means that they failed to do as well as other schools in the same socioeconomic level.

Santana made by far the greatest improvement in the district, with Mt. Miguel second. The CAP test underwent a major revision last year, and according to County Superintendent Thomas C. Boysen, "The new test is much tougher. It places much greater emphasis on more complex levels of reasoning and analysis."

Mt. Miguel scores highest relative ranking on CAP test in district

by Kathy Logue

Mt. Miguel's strong relative rankings were achieved with a united effort of staff and the senior class. Both students and teachers took time out of their schedules to prepare for the CAP. Mr. Madigan and Mr. Ferguson conducted before and after school tutoring programs for students who did not have an English class in which to review. Math teachers used classtime to review basic concepts with their students in order to prepare them for the math portion of the test.

For the first time in several years the test was given in the gymnasium to the entire senior class, rather than in small groups in the classrooms. This allowed all students to hear the same instructions and enhanced the feeling of working together to earn high scores.

Mr. Carroll, Mt. Miguel's principal, was pleased with the progress made, and stated that the challenge in the future is to close the gap between the statewide ranking and the relative ranking. He added, "If we do the best we can do, the test scores will take care of themselves."

There will be some changes in next year's CAP test. In addition to reading, writing, and math, there is the possibility that history and physical education concepts will also be tested. There will also be some changes in the writing portion. Besides testing the reflective, autobiographical, evaluative, and interpretive forms, reporting of information and speculation of cause or effect will be tested.

Monte Vista seniors make strong showing on CAP tests

Monte Vista seniors have improved their CAP scores for the third year in a row. Principal Jerry Gordinier said, "We are delighted with the results. We know we have a strong academic program and serious students who are being well prepared. This test shows that we are one of the top schools in the county." Monte Vista moved up in the county rankings from 13th to 7th in reading, and from 18th to 13th in math. Both the math and English departments have been stressing the critical thinking and conceptualizing which are being included on the most recent CAP tests.

Commentary

Many parents view prom and graduation time with mixed emotions.

The celebration of graduation is an important part of the child's high school experience which is usually full of wonderful memories.

Parents view the celebration with pride–and fear.

Proms and graduations are often associated with alcohol, and drinking and driving continues to be the no. 1 killer of American teenagers.

Approximately 3,000 young people in the 15 - 19 year old age group are killed each year because of teen drinking and driving accidents.

In addition, more than 200,000 young people suffer traumatic head injuries every year, most from car accidents. Many of these are left with severe disabilities.

There are several solutions that will allay the fear of parents and increase the safety of the grads.

•Solicit the driving assistance of an older brother or sister, or a responsible older neighbor.

• Draw up an "agreement" with the grad-driver that he will call you for transportation if he has been drinking. Parent will agree to pick the celebrants up, regardless of the hour, and ask no questions.

• Another solution is to help the grad team up with a friend and hire a limousine.

The California Public Utilities Commisssion gets into the Class of '89 act with some sound advice. The PUC licenses and regulates limosines. It sees using a limo as a safe and sound idea. The only caution it offers is that customers should be wary of unlicensed limo operators. An illegal (unlicensed) operator may carry less insurance than required by the PUC–or none at all.

By law, only PUC-licensed operators may advertise their services. Such advertisements must include a PUC-assigned I.D. symbol, which begins with the letters "TCP". Check the Yellow Pages under "Limousines".

Illegal or unlicensed operators are often unreliable in providing their services. They sometimes book more customers than they can handle, yet demand payment in advance. Such operators, says the PUC, have also been known to demand, at the last minute, a higher fare than agreed upon earlier.

The PUC recommends that a written contract be obtained from the limo firm. If the requested service is not supplied, the PUC staff will assist you in obtaining a refund of your deposit. The telephone number for the PUC office in San Diego is 237-7388.

Congratulations to all graduates. Now go for a college degree!

From Where I Sit

by Frank Andrews

"I'm wearing out, and so is all my equipment." The years between 1970 and '72 have been good years for us, as that is when we purchased most of our kitchen appliances. And now, one at a time, those sophisticated, expensive items are wearing out.

I can remember back in the simple, uncomplicated days, I could fix 'most anything. The older car engines without air-conditioning, auto transmission, smog devices, and all the other intricate junk under the hood left enough room for my big paws to work. Changing oil, greasing, fixing flats, tuning the engine; even the major engine overhauls were all a piece of cake in those "good old days."

What could go wrong with the kitchen appliances way back when?

The dishwasher consisted of a dish pan and a dish rag. The dishes were rinsed with boiling, hot water from a teakettle on a wood stove. The water was hand-pumped from a nearby well or cistern. The dirty dish water was emptied in the garden or the fishing worm bed.

Our refrigerator was filled with ice by the iceman that came every other day. The only chore, then, was to empty the icewater pan from under the fridge. (Some of that clear, soft water was saved for washing our hair).

The delicious meals and baked goods that my mother turned out with that wood-burning range would make Sara Lee "glee." My reward for cutting the kindling wood and stoking the stove was a scrumptious baked tidbit.

My mother's automatic washer consisted of a scrubbing board and a hand-operator wringer to squeeze some of the rinse water out of the clothes. The clothes were dried on lines in our back yard, which made the white goods come out sparkling from the sun and breezes.

Now, when one of our modern-day kitchen appliances goes on the "fritz," I call the toll-free 800 number of that particular company for help. I explain to them what the problem is, and they advise how to repair the machine. New parts, if needed, are promptly shipped. The instruction book is very simple to understand, and you save the high cost of a repairman.

A few weeks ago, our automatic ice cube maker stuck, got red-hot, and defrosted the freezer section of our refrigerator. I made the call, explained the situation to a very courteous technician, and he sent me a whole, new icemaker unit.

By following the instructions, I installed the gadget in just a few minutes. The ice cubes are now coming out like popcorn out of the popper; even better than when it was new.

My wife even praised me, "Honey, I'm so proud of you. You did a good job, saved us money, and besides, I really didn't think you could do it."

Trolley signal testing slows traffic at crossroads in Lemon Grove

Are Lemon Grove's traffic signals taking longer to change, or does it just seem that way?

They are longer, according to Leslie Ruh, Lemon Grove's Road Commissioner. "It's the Metro Trolley people testing the trolley signals and timing them," said Ruh.

The Public Utilities Commission (PUC) supervises the project's safety factors, and mandates the standards for safety and trolley signals and barrier-arm timing.

The Metropolitan Transit Development Board (MTDB) has installed barrier-arms which are activated electronically, except when overridden by the trolley operator's manual switch.

The descent of the arms preempts the city's signal lights, timed to move auto traffic expediently and safely. Obviously, all cross-over traffic must be stopped as trains approach the crossing, and be allowed to move as soon as trains have safely passed.

Ruh reported that MTDB experiences a broken barrier-arm every day, on the average, on currently operating lines.

"That's because people run into them, or they stop further into the track right-of-way and the arm comes down on top of the vehicle," Ruh said.

The past couple of weeks, and next week, may be thought of as a training process to accustom drivers and pedestrians to the new challenges of trolley track safety.

The entire operation must gain the approval of the PUC, including traffic signals as well as train schedules. It sets the lead time for the crossing arms, Ruh noted.

Traffic lines should grow shorter, and the flow of traffic should be smoother, once all of the various elements are tied together, and the testing is completed.

The official opening of the East County section through Lemon Grove will take place at the Trolley Depot at 10:30 a.m. Friday, May 12. Regularly scheduled runs will being Mother's Day, May 14, at 11 a.m., and all mothers are invited to ride free, MTDB said.

It's The Law

by Martin L. Shives, Attorney at Law

QUESTION: I was recently terminated from my employment as a computer programming supervisor. The company's official position was that my position was being eliminated; therefore, I was no longer needed. The company then hired a 30-year-old man to replace me. I am a 57-year-old widow, and have found it difficult to find a new job with similar responsibilities, pay and benefits.

ANSWER: The question you ask is one which nearly every person who is fired or laid off asks. Nothing can be more central to a person's life than ensuring their continued economic survival.

The California Supreme Court has recently addressed this question in a case called Foley vs. Interactive Data Corporation. That case involved an assistant production manager who was fired when he reported to his superiors that his new supervisor was under investigation by the F.B.I. Presumably, the F.B.I. was investigating the supervisor for embezzlement. Mr. Foley had been an outstanding employee for some six years.

Upon being fired by Interactive Data, Foley sued for wrongful discharge claiming that his dismissal was: (1) wrongful, (2) in violation of public policy, (3) a breach of an implied-in-fact employment agreement, and (4) a tortious breach of the implied covenant owed by employers to deal fairly and in good faith with their employees.

The Supreme Court ruled in favor of Interactive Data that although Mr. Foley could sue for damages from the breach of contract, he could not recover for any of the tortious conduct by Interactive Data. Thus, to the extent he could prove promises were made by his employer and were not kept, he could receive lost wages and economic damages (including reinstatement) caused by Interactive Data's breach of the employment contract.

This ruling eliminated damages that are the basis for many wrongful termination lawsuits in which substantial additional recovery was had for "emotional distress" and other non-economic damages unrelated to the employment contract. Such non-economic damages were recovered for the employers in committing a social wrong. In simple terms, an employer previously had a "duty" imposed to act fairly in the employment relationship.

The Supreme Court effectively held that an employer-employee relationship is primarily contractual and that no duties outside the contract arise with respect to continuing the employment relationship. An employer is thus held accountable to its employees by its reputation in dealing fairly (which will affect whether it can attract new employees), but it is not obliged to retain an employee absent special circumstances.

The Supreme Court indicated that employees are not generally able to seek other work within the "market place." Unfortunately, as you have already found, the market place is not always friendly, and finding a similar position at an equivalent salary may be difficult, if not impossible.

The Supreme Court did recognize some safeguards, however, and if your termination from the Company was based upon reasons which violate public policy, then a lawsuit based upon those reasons could still be maintained. Thus, although you cannot sue for your employer's "unfair dealing," you can still sue for discriminatory practices (including age and sex discrimination) as well as fraud and defamation if those claims are factually supported. Moreover, if an employer terminates an employee for refusing to work under unsafe conditions or refusing to violate the law, then a separate lawsuit may be available.

Because you have so much at stake, and this area of the law is changing regularly, before making a final decision as to whether to pursue the matter further, I would suggest you consult with an attorney who concentrates his or her practice in the area of labor law. The limitations on your remedies make this a more difficult area for the terminated employee to succeed with counsel. Seeking legal advice early will place you in a better position to carry your case forward should it be found that your employer did act improperly. The San Diego County Bar Associate Lawyer Referral and Information Service can assist you in finding a lawyer who practices in this area. You can contact hem by calling (619) 231-8585, or by writing to 1434 Fifth Avenue, San Diego, 92101.

Thoughts from an exciting trip to Hong Kong

Eva Berry, of Lemon Grove, is a seasoned traveler who has visited numerous countries. She returned from the Orient recently, and we asked her to share a few of her observations with us.

Hong Kong, a territory under British rule, is a land of contrasts. An area of only 400 square miles, it includes 235 islands, and the Kowloon Peninsula.

Victoria Park, the highest elevation on Hong Kong Island at 1,800 feet, affords a spectacular view of the entire area; the islands covered with high-rise hotels and banks, blue-water harbors, beaches, and cemeteries built on tiers on the hillsides.

Cremation is most often practiced; the land is so expensive and scarce that buried remains must be removed within seven years, a very costly process only the wealthy can afford.

Victoria Peak is settled with large, lovely homes, and expensive apartment houses which rent for $4,000 per unit and more per month.

A most interesting experience was a sampan ride through the fishing village of Aberdeen, where many fishing families live in junks. Sometimes extended families of more than a dozen members live in one boat of up to 30 feet in length. Cats, dogs and chickens in coops vie for space with the family's numerous children (family size isn't restricted in British governed Hong Kong as it is in China). Usually lines of wash are drying on the boat top.

The number of fishermen have dwindled in the past few years, from an estimated 100,000 to 10,000 or so today, as younger generations find better ways to earn a living, and more comfortable, less cramped living space.

Most Hong Kong residents rent government housing. The average apartment size is 400 square feet, and with a waiting period of seven years. A luxury apartment in the private sector, of 1,000 square feet, costs about $3,000-a-month to rent, and 3 or 4 workers must pool their earnings and share the unit to afford it.

Professional buildings, especially banks and hotels, are popping up like mushrooms. The majority are constructed by foreign investors: Japanese, Canadian, American, and some mainland Chinese. The wide variety of architectural styles, side-by-side, is spectacular.

Many of the high-rise structures have sides obscured by massive cigarette billboards. Large signs are prevalent, often neon. Downtown Hong Kong is striking with the vast display of colorful neon lettering criss-crossing above the streets.

I don't think the natives are aware of the hazards of smoking tobacco, considering the mass advertising and the many people – by far the majority – who smoke.

Ninety percent of Hong Kong's food is imported, primarily from China. In dry years, water is pumped from China, too, at great expense. Oranges are a luxury, shipped from the U.S., and are passed out as a special treat at weddings and banquets. The oranges I saw seemed old and dry; not something we'd enjoy.

Cat meat is considered a delicacy, but we were advised we didn't have to worry about eating it accidentally. It has to be ordered specially.

Stanley Market is a shopping experience not to be missed. It is a narrow footpath with small open-front shops on either side, each filled with bargains.

We also visited a "night-market," much like our swap meets. During the day, it is a huge parking lot, but from 6 p.m. until midnight, it converts to a market with every imaginable item for sale, from silks to fish heads.

Unidentifiable foods were cooked and served at tables there, but I don't think any of my travel group were brave enough to try any of it. We picked up good buys on less adventuresome purchases.

The traffic is terribly congested in Hong Kong. Traffic there, comparable to the rush-hour standstill on 94, lasts all day and into the evening hours.

Hong Kong residents are concerned about what will happen in eight years, when Great Britain turns the territory over to the Chinese government.

Anyone with $100,000 is permitted exit to the U.S., Canada or Australia. Those in the professional fields are being accepted for immigration, and are leaving Hong Kong at an estimated rate of 10,000 each month. This mass exit is referred to there as the "brain drain."

Hong Kong is a fascinating place to visit; as new as tomorrow, and as old as time.

Officer Pete Madrid of Spring Valley honored by Burn Institute

The Burn Institute's 16th annual Spirit of Courage Awards took place Tuesday, May 2, at the Hilton Hotel on Mission Bay. Each year during this ceremony, the Burn Institute pays tribute to individuals who have risked their own lives to save another from death or injury by fire.

"A tribute to Those Who Care" was the theme for the annual event, recognizing those individuals who are nominated for the awards by members of local safety agencies. This year, 22 people received honors.

This year, a Spring Valley resident is being honored with the Spirit of Courage Award.

Peter Madrid of Spring Valley is an officer with the San Diego Police Department. While on patrol, Madrid and his partner, Officer Stuart Reynolds, were flagged down and told of an apartment building on fire.

Officers Madrid and Reynolds risked their own lives to save others in what is referred to by Police Chief Bob Burgreen as "above and beyond the call of normal police duty."

The rescue is described by the Police Department in the following nominating letter.

When San Diego police officers Pete Madrid and Stuart Reynolds were flagged down and told of an apartment building fire nearby, neither of them knew that the life of a resident would be saved because of their actions. Upon arrival at the complex last April 23, the officers found apartment #7 engulfed in flames. Many of the residents were elderly or handicapped; some were hysterical and could not communicate to the officers whether anyone remained inside. As Officer Reynolds attempted to hold back the flames with a fire extinguisher, Officer Madrid entered the smoke-filled apartment to look for occupants. Because the smoke was at knee level, he didn't see anyone at first. But after crawling through every room, he finally discovered a 72-year-old man trapped on a patio at the rear of the dwelling. Because a 6-foot fence surrounded the patio, Madrid knew the only avenue of escape was back through the living room.

Meanwhile, Officer (Trainee) Reynolds had become concerned for Madrid's safety and entered the apartment to check on his partner's welfare. "I wondered if I would even be able to find him," Reynolds recalled. Crawling through thick smoke, he finally located Madrid and the elderly man, both of whom had begun to suffer the effects of smoke inhalation. By now the rooms were fully involved with fire; but, together, the officers were able to guide the victim outside and attend to him until paramedics arrived.

San Diego Padres join California Highway Patrol and San Diego Police in California Teamwork Project

The San Diego Padres joined forces with the California Highway Patrol and the San Diego Police Department as part of the newly-formed California Teamwork Project.

The project, which involves the four other California major league teams and their local police departments, is designed to raise public awareness about the dangers associated with drinking and driving and to increase cooperation and communication between baseball and law enforcement officials.

California Teamwork Project is an extension of Major League Baseball's Techniques in Effective Alcohol Management (TEAM) program, which has helped establish more effective alcohol management policies in all 26 major league ballparks.

The Padres involvement with the TEAM program is multi-faceted. Last year, more than 550 event-day personnel – including ticket takers, ushers and security personnel – were trained by the Padres on various aspects of the TEAM program.

These aspects included instruction on the curbing of alcohol-related incidents, the promotion of responsible use of alcohol and providing a coordinated effort in dealing with potential problems.

The club frequently promotes the TEAM program through various media – public address announcements, scoreboard announcements, radio commercials and print advertising.

"We feel the TEAM program has had a dramatic effect on curtailing problems, and has helped to enhance the family atmosphere during (our) games," said Doug Duennes, Padres' Director of Stadium Operations.

The Padres first contribution to the California Teamwork Project includes a special public service announcement/commercial filmed by pitcher Mark Davis in conjunction with the Highway Patrol and the San Diego Police Department.

The commercial will be shown during the Padres KUSII television broadcasts and on the San Diego Cable Sports Network cablecasts.

YWCA to honor several Spring Valley residents with Tribute to Women in Industry Awards

Several Spring Valley residents will be honored at this year's tenth anniversary YWCA Tribute to Women and Industry (TWIN) Awards luncheon on Thursday, June 1, at the Sheraton Harbor Island East. They include: Susan F. Schafer, Assistant Curator of Reptiles & Amphibians at Zoological Society of San Diego; Edythe L. Brown, Senior Technical Writer at Systech Computer Corporation; and Patricia Yourczek, Sr. Planner Scheduler at National Steel & Shipbuilding Co.

This year, TWIN honors 100 women from throughout San Diego County who have made important contributions to their companies or profession. The honorees serve in managerial, executive or professional roles. The event not only honors the women, but also the companies which offer opportunities to women to reach their potential. The TWIN awards luncheon is the largest event featuring corporate women in San Diego.

TWIN, first initiated in June, 1980, now has four components: The Awards Luncheon; a reception for honorees and their chief executive officers; TWIN Forum, a networking group for all present and past honorees; and Career Options, a program utilizing honorees as role models. Nearly 800 women in the San Diego area have been honored by TWIN during its ten-year span.

Robert F. Adelizzi, president of Home Federal Savings and Loan Association, is this year's honorary chairman.

Drum competition finale on May 13

By Rachel Ann Watson

The Drums Across California (DAC) Competition is held over the span of four months, starting in February. At the last show, the final scores of the four competitions are totaled and a DAC Champ is announced.

In 1987, Mt. Miguel returned to the DAC circuit for the first time in 3 years and placed third overall. In 1988, Mt. Miguel won the DAC title. Now they are defending that title, and just might repeat as champions. In the last 3 competitions, Mt. Miguel has placed 2nd each time. However, no drumline has beaten them twice, and in cumulative points, is in the top slot.

When Chad Meyer, one of the two captains of the drumline this year, was asked how he felt Mt. Miguel would do, he replied, "We'll rip!"

After the DAC Competition, held at Dana Hills High School in Mission Viejo, the drumline was off to Pepperdine University in Malibu for the Malibu Classic Drum Competition, consisting of the top drumlines in California. This was Mt. Miguel's first appearance there. Once again, Mt. Miguel was a crowd-pleaser, receiving three of the five high honors: Best Auxiliary Percussion, Best Cymbal Line, and Best Snare Line. They were awarded second place, beaten only by Tulare High School from central California.

Mt. Miguel drumline competitors

Mt. Miguel will participate in the fourth and final DAC competition on Saturday, May 13, at Mission Viejo High School.

When asked how he felt, Alex Eugenio, the drum coach, replied, "I think that the last three shows were great. As for the next one, no one will touch us!"

Water Awareness Week celebrated throughout state

May 1-7 is Water Awareness Week, a statewide campaign to raise the understanding and appreciation of how quality water is delivered from the source (watershed) to your tap at an affordable price – less than one cent per gallon. Considering that the water may have travelled as much as 400 miles to get to your tap, that really is a bargain.

Well, Water Awareness Week is half over, and if you're like me, it hasn't hit home yet. Most of us don't begin to worry until water rationing begins, and then it's too late. The fact is, San Diego is semi arid and natural runoff accounts for less than 10% of our water needs in an average year. Meaning, we must import 90% of our water from outside of San Diego County.

The mechanism which has been created to provide us with a smooth flow of water is in a way, a multi-tiered marketing operation. The Metropolitan Water District of Southern California (MWD), formed in 1928, consists of 27 member agencies serving 14 million people. MWD imports water (about six trillion gallons per year) from the Colorado River and northern California by aqueduct, a method perfected by the Romans. Of course, MWD's system is more complex, having been recognized as one of the seven modern engineering wonders of the United States.

MWD sells water to its member agencies, one of which is the San Diego County Water Authority, which in turn sells the water to its 24 member agencies of which the City of San Diego, Helix Water District, Padre Dam Municipal Water District, and Otay Water District cover the surrounding communities.

Helix Water District, which now covers most of La Mesa, Lemon Grove, Spring Valley, and El Cajon, had its beginning as the San Diego Flume Company in 1885. (The "flume" was a 33 1/2 mile long redwood flume which was constructed to bring water from Lake Cuyamaca to La Mesa). Helix operates as a public agency under Irrigation District Laws of the State of California, and is governed by a Board of five Directors empowered to establish water charges, levy assessments, and adopt all policies, procedures, and regulations for providing customers with high quality water, fairly priced, served through an efficient and reliable water system.

In conjunction with Water Awareness Week, Helix Water District invites you to participate in "The Hour San Diego Went Dry!" or a simulation thereof. Do not use a drop from 2-3 p.m. on Saturday, May 6, 1989. And on Sunday, May 7, there is an open house from 1-3 p.m. at the R.M. Levy Treatment Plant at Lake Jennings.

Kids have been taught the Water Conservation Pledge, which goes as follows:

I pledge to conserve water and to use water wisely.

I pledge to take shorter showers, to use a brook to sweep sidewalks, to use less water in the bathtub, to turn off the hose while washing a car and to use water carefully in the garden.

I pledge to remind my parents to use water wisely if they are wasting it.

When I become an adult, I pledge to continue my water-saving habits because I know that water is life and California does not have enough water to waste.

Bullfight excitement starts May 7 in Tijuana

The 1989 bullfight season starts in Tijuana on Sunday, May 7, with a corrida in the downtown arena, El Toreo de Tijuana, beginning at 4 p.m. Matadors will be Manolo Arruza, Cesar Pastor and Luis Fernando Sanchez. Each will face two wild bulls of the famed Penuelas ranch.

A bullfight for beginning matadors, a novillada, will be held on May 14. The big Memorial Day weekend corrida will be held on May 28. Another novillada is scheduled for June 11.

Starting on Sunday, July 2, a corrida will be held in Tijuana each Sunday at 4 p.m. through Oct. 1. The corridas through July 30 will be in the downtown bullring. Corridas of Aug. 6 through Sept. 10 will be in the bullring by the sea, Plaza Monumental de Tijuana. The bullfights of Sept. 16 and 24, and of Oct. 1, will be downtown.

Dottie Morris converting to home word processing business

A Lemon Grove housewife resolved the problem which comes with having a full-time job while caring for an employed husband, a 2-year-old child, and at the same time, keeping the household operating smoothly.

Dottie Morris, of Fawnwood Lane, a word processor for a firm of attorneys for eight years, came to the decision a few weeks ago.

"I moved my job into our home," she explained.

"I purchased a word processor and set up my business in my spare bedroom. My experience has been solely with attorneys," she said. "Since legal word processing is a highly specialized profession, I am getting overflow work from individuals and firms which do not have a word processing center."

"A legal secretary's time is valuable," she noted. "When voluminous documents which require revision come in the attorney's office, it ties up a legal secretary frequently for several days. My past experience in the legal field permits me to work quickly and do the job in between household chores, and still meet the demanding deadlines of lawyers.

She said that such matters as wills follow the same legal terminology, so lawyers need to supply only the new material and get back a revised copy within hours.

Morris said time-saving will be even more pronounced because of a "syntrex" in her new workroom. It is capable of "merging" repetitious documents with new material. Later she will acquire a new modem which will talk to the attorney's word processor.

Such matters as pleadings, deposition summaries and agreement are also processed at the Morris workshop.

Morris said she is offering nothing for sale to the public. Her profession is strictly providing overflow services to attorneys' offices.

She said she wanted to tell her story so that other overworked women may be encouraged to seek similar ways to continue needed income and still keep home responsibilities intact.

Lee Mench, specialist in senior housing developments, starts The Village of Lemon Grove senior apartments

Lee Mench

Lee Mench is a developer with a difference. He has carefully scrutinized the housing requirements and preferences characteristic of senior citizens, and applied the resulting knowledge to the development of apartment communities specially designed for active senior lifestyles.

Selected features such as lever-style water taps, electric wall outlets raised an additional 12 inches, easy-care counter-tops, and cushioned floorings make life more comfortable for folks who find themselves a bit less agile with the passing years, Mench explained.

"There are more than 365,000 seniors 60-years-old or older in San Diego County. Of those, 30 percent rent, creating a demand in excess of 100,000 senior apartments. I've researched all the municipalities, senior-related agencies and resources, and current senior apartment complexes. I can identify less than 10,000 apartments currently in existence that are specifically designed for the senior population," Mench stated.

"They've made their contributions to society, and they really do deserve a carefree retirement," Mench added.

The Village Corporation, of which Mench is president, isn't interested solely in erecting massive stucco monuments to the aging. The firm carries its responsibilities light-years further, focusing on creating comfortable communities comparable to the conviviality of a shipboard holiday – right here at home.

The corporation's current and fourth such project, The Village at Lemon Grove, is now under construction at 7490 Broadway. It will consist of 179 one and two bedroom apartment units, as well as a modest commercial shopping strip. Mench estimated the development cost will approach $7 million.

"These communities, in addition to being secure, well-planned and affordable, offer activities and services for independent seniors not usually available to them," Mench said.

In-house activities include barbecues, dances, concerts, travel and investment lectures, welcoming parties for new neighbors, tenant meetings, and even an occasional poker night.

An 11-passenger van provides transportation for medical and shopping trips, a spree to Seaport Village twice-a-month, a jaunt to the local Chinese buffet; even personal excursions to visit relatives and friends, Mench said.

The local project also includes an olympic-sized swimming pool within its park-like courtyard, wide observation balconies (preferred by seniors to tiny, private balconies), and plenty of parking, even for recreational vehicles. The community will be well-lighted and boasts on-site management, he added.

The rent prices proposed for The Village at Lemon Grove are $425-$550, for a lifestyle that can be as adventurous or tranquil as the resident desires, Mench noted.

Mench is available, he said, for on-site tours of projects in operation, those under construction and for information on developments now being planned, at 442-4911.

Aldriches certified for color

Erica and Steve Aldrich, owner-operators of Marianne's Beauty Supply & Gifts at 7943 Broadway, were certified last week as "Color Me Beautiful Image Consultants."

Together, they successfully completed an intensive five-day training program in personal image enhancement to earn their certifications.

"Color Me Beautiful" takes the seasonal approach to teach women which shades of cosmetic and clothing colors to use to improve their appearance.

"We can literally transform a woman in about an hour, with a color analysis and a free cosmetic make over!" Erica said.

Steve noted that color concepts are equally important for men to know and use.

"We all look better, and feel more confident, when we wear the right clothing in colors appropriate to our skin tones," he said.

The Aldriches are excited about adding the concept to their business, and introducing the high-quality line of cosmetics and skin care products of "Color Me Beautiful" to Lemon Grove.

Sports Commentary

by John E. Wirges

It seemed fitting somehow that the Padres were playing a game during the memorial services for Rhoda Polley. It's as if the game was a tribute to the lady the players called "Mom."

Rhoda died last week at the age of 65, after battling cancer to a near standstill for the last six months. She was buried at Greenwood Mortuary with her memorial services conducted by infielder Tim Flannery's father, the Reverend Ragon Flannery.

She was, and is, a very special person and a loving memory to players, coaches, managers, scouting, and front office staffers throughout the Padres organization.

The Padres administrative assistant for baseball operations over the last ten years, Rhoda knew every player on the roster. A former legal secretary with 38 years experience, 13 of them teaching the craft, Rhoda put players at ease explaining the fine print and options to any and all who asked for help.

She saw to it that every "T" was crossed and every "I" dotted in the hundreds of legal documents, contracts, and employee agreements that crossed her desk.

Almost to a man, players and coaches said, "Rhoda ran the organization."

But that was just her "official" side. A widow without children of her own, Rhoda "adopted" the players and followed their progress from the minors to a major league berth with all the love and concern of a doting parent.

Mark Parent gives Rhoda credit for keeping him in the game after a disappointing demotion during his 8-year stay in the minors. Tim Flannery said that in the midst of all the uncertainty he had experienced in his 11 years with the Padres organization, Rhoda was as steady as a rock.

She also adopted Jack McKeon and guided him through his early days as the Padres' general manager.

McKeon is recognized by his peers as an exceptionally shrewd bargainer and is highly rated as a general manager.

Players rate him one of the best field managers in the game. McKeon effectively wears both hats, although his is general manager without portfolio in the padres organization table.

The truth is, McKeon couldn't have done nearly as well in the day to day operation of the club without Rhoda. She protected him from the curious, screened his calls and callers, and guarded his time.

A case in point: The San Diego Press Club chose McKeon as its "Headliner of the Year for 1988," and past president Will Parry called to inform McKeon and invite him to the Press Club awards banquet held last February. He couldn't get past Rhoda.

The Headliner selection was semi-confidential and Parry wanted to inform McKeon and no one else.

After four tries with no results, Parry went looking for help. A reporter enlisted the aid of Padre PR Director Bill Beck, told him what was coming and asked him to clear the call.

The next time Parry called, he was put right through. This time Rhoda knew it was "business."

She knew she was dying, but she stayed on until she got the season safely underway. She is gone, but she will never be very far away. She lives on in the hearts of all who knew her. We are vastly enriched for having known her. God speed, Rhoda.

Area drivers scoring at Speedway

Several Lemon Grove and Spring Valley drivers were in the action at Cajon Speedway last Saturday. Dale Wineteer of Lemon Grove was passed by Mike Carver in the next-to-last lap of the 25-lap Main for Street Stocks. Wineteer finished second for the night and is sixth in the cumulative point standings for Street Stocks. Daryl Eaton of Fastime Automotive in Lemon Grove, and a Spring Valley resident, is fourth in the Street Stock point standings.

In the Bomber Stocks, Bob Wickey of Spring Valley had the fastest lap-time and took third place in the 20-lap Main. Greg Collins, also from Spring Valley, took second, but the race was won by Ivan Harrison of Santee. Wickey is tied for first in the Bomber Stocks point standings, and Mike Lerwill of Lemon Grove is tied for ninth place.

The 30-lap Main for Sportsman Stocks (shortened to 29), was won by Tobin Whitt, followed by Ed Hale, Larry Lyon, Bob Thompson and Dennis Wooldridge. The 20-lap Main for Pony Stocks was won by Tim DeBoer, with Jon Busath, George Wolf, Jimmy Dickerson, and Gary Hickman crossing the line after DeBoer.

They'll go at it again Saturday night at 7:30 p.m. (qualifying begins at 6 p.m.) at Cajon Speedway.

Sockers quest

The San Diego Sockers quest to see if "seven is heaven" moves in to the second of two games being played at the San Diego Sports Arena Saturday at 7:35 p.m. in the MISL semi-finals.

The Socks host the Dallas Sidekicks this week. The two teams then move on to Dallas for games three, four and five on May 12, 13 and 14.

Both teams return to San Diego for games six and seven, if necessary. Those games will be played at the Sports Arena May 18 and 20.

Padres, Pittsburgh and free caps on Friday, May 5

Padres - San Diego Trust and Savings Cap Night on Friday, May 5th, will draw a crowd. All fans attending the game against Pittsburgh will receive a specially designed Padres cap.

Good seats are still available in the $9.50 and $8.00 sections. General admission seating is being sold at $4.00 on a reserved seat basis.

The Padres - Bucs game starts at 7:05. The series against Pittsburgh continues on Saturday night and Sunday afternoon. After that the Padres are on the road to St. Louis and New York.

Two Padres' players are on the disabled list, both placed there prior to the season's start. Outfielder Shane Mack has been out of action since the middle of March with bone chips in his right elbow. Left-handed pitcher Eric Nolte is on the 21-day list, having undergone stomach surgery for a perforated ulcer on March 16th. He is in Las Vegas and has been working out.

NOTICE TO PUBLIC OF REQUEST FOR THE RELEASE OF FUNDS AND NOTICE OF FINDING OF NO SIGNIFICANT EFFECT ON THE ENVIRONMENT
MAY 4, 1989
APPLICANT:
COUNTY OF SAN DIEGO
1600 Pacific Highway
San Diego, CA 92101
(619) 694-4817

TO ALL INTERESTED AGENCIES, GROUPS AND PERSONS:

The purpose of this notice is to identify three separate but related actions to be taken by the County of San Diego.

I. On or about May 22, 1989, the County of San Diego will request the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) to release Federal funds under Title I of the Housing and Community Act of 1974 (PL 93-383) for the following project(s):

PROJECT: Ildica/Tyler Flood Control Channel, a multi-year project.

PURPOSE: To provide an interim flood control facility along a portion of Spring Valley Creek.

LOCATION: The unincorporated area of Spring Valley, County of San Diego, State of California. Located from the existing concrete channel south of Tyler to 480 feet south of Ildica Street.

ESTIMATED COST: $300,000

II. It has been determined that such request for release of funds will not constitute an action significantly affecting the quality of human environment and accordingly the above-named County of San Diego has decided not to prepare an Environmental Impact statement under National Environmental Policy Act of 1969 (PL 91-190).

The reasons for such decision not to prepare such Statement are as follows:

1. No wildlife resources nor any Endangered or Threatened species as described in Federal environmental regulations will be impacted.

2. No sites in or eligible for inclusion in the National Register of Historic Places will be impacted.

3. The project will not significantly impact the floodplain, nor directly or indirectly encourage floodplain hazards. This finding complies with Step 7 of the U.S. Water Resource Council's Floodplain Management Guidelines for implementing Executive Order 11988.

III. This Finding of No Significant Effect will be used in place of a Negative Declaration under the California Environmental Quality Act (CEQA) for the project, because it is being prepared before the Negative Declaration would otherwise be completed, and because it complies with the provisions of the State CEQA Guidelines. An Environmental Review Record respecting the subject project has been made which documents the environmental review of the project and more fully sets forth the reasons why such statement is not required. This Environmental Review Record is on file and is available for public examination and copying. To review these documents, call (619) 694-2829 (County Department of Public Works, Environmental Services Unit) for an appointment.

No further environmental review of such project is proposed to be conducted prior to the request for release of Federal funds.

COMMENTS TO COUNTY OF SAN DIEGO

All interested agencies, groups or individuals disagreeing with any of the three proposed actions are invited to submit written comments for consideration to the County of San Diego, 5555 Overland Avenue, Attention: Maggie Loy (Mail Stop 0340), San Diego, CA 92123. Such written comments should be received on or before May 19, 1989. All written comments received will be considered and the County of San Diego will not request the release of Federal funds or take any action on the described project(s) prior to HUD's written authorization to use those funds. It is requested that those forwarding comments specify which of the proposed actions is being addressed.

OBJECTIONS TO HUD

The County of San Diego will undertake the project(s) described with Block Grant funds from HUD under Title I of the Housing and Community Act of 1974. The County of San Diego is certifying to HUD that the County of San Diego and Susan Golding, in her official capacity as Chairman of the Board of Supervisors consents to accept the jurisdiction of the Federal courts if an action is brought to enforce responsibilities in relation to environmental review, decision making and action; and that these responsibilities have been satisfied. The legal effect of the certification is that upon its approval the County of San Diego may use the Block Grant funds and HUD will have satisfied its responsibilities under the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969. HUD will accept an objection to its approval of the release of funds and acceptance of the certification only if it is one of the following basis: (a) That the certification was not in fact executed by the certifying officer or other officer of applicant approved by HUD; or (b) that applicant's environmental review record for the project indicates omission of a required decision finding or step applicable to the project in the environmental review process. Objections must be prepared and submitted in accordance with the required procedures under 24 CFR Part 58.75 of the Interim Regulations found in the Federal Register dated April 12, 1982. These regulations are available in the offices of the Public Works Environmental Services Unit at the above address. Objections may be submitted to: Environmental Clearance Officer, U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development, 1615 West Olympic Boulevard, Los Angeles, California 90015-3801.

Objections to HUD on the release of funds on bases other than those stated in the previous paragraph will not be considered by HUD. No objection received after June 9, 1989 will be considered by HUD.
